

The strobing enable / disable utilities were made to enable easy control of the strobing feature. With strobing on, the camera sends out IR light for short bursts rather than continuous. This gives increased performance where the user is moving and also in sunlight and other adverse lighting conditions. These utilities were provided for the rare cases where some applications may need to disable strobing. They should not be needed otherwise.